The industry standard for inline blowers has been shattered. Until now, most inline blowers removed excess heat, replaced stale air with fresh air, helped manage humidity and all the other things inline blowers do pretty good.

But a group of engineers knew they could do better, after all they were Swedish, and well... lets just say the "Swedes" are very particular when it comes to this kind of engineering. So they developed a unique cyclonic system that removes the turbulence from the inline blowers air stream.

And it turns out, that eliminating parasitic turbulence is absolutely critical if you want to achieve ultra smooth high velocity air flow, because turbulence is exactly like putting on the air flow "brakes" when it comes to getting high volumes of air moving through your grow room ducting or air scrubbers.

And they didn't stop there, they built the BaddAss Blower™ solid, like the Rock-of-Gibraltar, by using permanently lubricated and enclosed bearings so you'll never have to worry about rust or a loss of performance.

Even better, it has precision fitted high-grade steel construction with vise like sealing to ensure moisture never penetrates your vital circuitry and a rust proof coated housing offering you another layer of protection in humid environments guaranteeing you maintenance free performance. What's more, you get an unprecedented 20 year warranty, the best of any inline blower in the industry.

Here Are A Couple More Reasons Why The BaddAss Blower™ Is The Best In Its Class

- Your BaddAss Blower™ gives you superior velocity and more cubic feet of air movement than any other blower in its class...
- Your BaddAss Blower™ has been precisely crafted and hand-balanced for flawless operation and lifelong reliability. The performance you get when you open the box and plug it in is the exact performance you'll get year after year.
- When you turn on your BaddAss Blower™, it is 100% speed controllable where air movement is critical to ensuring a quality harvest.

- When you install your BaddAss Blower™, you'll find that it can be conveniently positioned any way you like. Thanks to the compact design, it also fits where many inline blowers cannot.
- Because of the simple yet brilliantly effective Swedish engineering and manufacturing, you'll never have to worry about rusting... or... compromising performance in damp or humid environments while running impressively quiet.
